The screenshot shows the Roundcube webmail settings interface. The left sidebar contains two columns of settings. The first column, labeled 'Preferences' with a blue circle '2', includes Folders, Add Account & Signatures, Responses, Filters, Identities, Change Password, and Import Mails. The second column, labeled 'User Interface' with a blue circle '3', includes Mailbox View, Displaying Messages, Composing Messages, Contacts, Special Folders, Server Settings, Sidebar, Skin Look & Feel, Calendar, Background, Weather, and News Feed. The main content area is titled 'Main Options' and contains several settings. The 'Language' setting is set to 'Spanish (Argentina)' and is highlighted with a blue circle '4'. The 'Time zone' is set to 'Auto', 'Time format' to '07:30', and 'Date format' to '24-07-2025', which is highlighted with a blue circle '5'. The 'Pretty dates' and 'Display next list entry after delete/move' settings are toggled off. The 'Refresh' setting is set to 'every 5 minute(s)'. Below the 'Main Options' section is the 'Interface skin' section, which lists several skins: Droid, Droid+, Elastic, GMail+, Larry, Litecube, and Outlook. The 'GMail+' skin is selected, indicated by a blue circle '6'. At the bottom of the 'Interface skin' section is a blue 'Save' button, highlighted with a blue circle '7'. On the right side of the interface, there is a vertical toolbar with icons for mail, user, calendar, and a grid icon, with a blue circle '1' next to the grid icon. A power icon is located at the bottom right of the interface.
